FOR SALE.

We have two pairs of good seven corner cases, with iron side and end sticks, a lot wood type that has been used awhile and a lot of cases that we will sell. The cases have been used and are somewhat dusty, but typewriter. For the cases we will take $1 per pair, for the wood type one cent per character and for the cases twenty-five cents apiece. D. H. HERRICK.

JUDGE FONTAINE T. FOX has been elected chairman for the ensuing year of the executive committee of the Prohibition party of Kentucky.

The first copy of Grant's book has been issued already and the second volume will appear about the first of next March. Agents are reporting wonderful success in the work.

Bon Ingersoll has taken up his residence in New York City, and the World remarks "This is about all that was necessary to complete the cosmopolitan character of the metropolis."

The biggest "swear off," that has yet come to light was at St. Martha, Canada, recently. The entire adult population of this city, of about 2, 000 inhabitants, assembled in church and voluntarily pledged themselves to abstain from all alcoholic beverages for one year.

GEN. S. B. BUCKNER, in a letter to the editor of the Breckenridge News, shows some fine argument and excellent ideas relative to the management of State affairs, and practically announces himself a candidate for Governor, and also outlines what his policy will be if elected.

Gov. Perry, of Florida, has called a meeting of delegates from the Southern States for Southern States Forestry Congress, to assemble at DeFuniak Springs, Florida, December 16th. The Governors of the various States are to appoint the delegates, and all have done so but Kentucky.

HON. ISAAC CALDWELL, the renowned Kentucky lawyer, died at his home in Louisville, on Wednesday morning last. He had lived a noble and useful life, and with a powerful mind and diligent study, had brought his name into such prominence and distinction as only sages deserve.

THERE is nothing that springs the trap-door of despair that often en-gulf a man, only to wander around for days sometimes before finding the outlet of unkindness, quicker than for a candidate to tackle a man for his vote and after talking to him in the most eloquent strain for about sixty-five minutes, find out that he is a candidate for the same office himself.

A FEW weeks ago we published an interview with a gentleman, which the Louisville Suburban boldly copied and inserted as original matter.
When we good humoredly reminded our neighbor that we noticed his little theft, he got upon his little ear and buzzed around like a blue bottle fly with its leg caught in a drop of molasses, and seemed terribly miffed, instead of taking the reminder with good grace, but never denied the theft. In its last issue the Suburban copies an article from the HERALD, and with an evident spirit of plagiarism merely credits it to "Exchange." The inclination to do justice is very small in some men.

The magnitude of the work which Prohibitionists are endeavoring to accomplish is evident from the extent of the liquor trade. A comparing statement of the number of proof gallons of spirits rectified during the year ended April 30, 1885, shows that the quantity rectified in Ohio was 10,063,758 gallons. This is slightly exceeded by one State—New York—which rectified 10,845,356 gallons. The next State after these two is Pennsylvania, which rectified 8,863,384 gallons during the same period. Illinois reports five million gallons, Kentucky four, Maryland and Missouri three, and Massachusetts and Wisconsin one.

A NATION MOURNS

THE DEATH OF VICE PRESIDENT
HENDRICKS, LAST WEDNESDAY.

After a Week's Night Terrors, the Great Statesman Quietly Breathes His Last Away.

Death has shown his relentless power again, and this time he has touched the hearts of a whole nation in calling forth his victim. A cloud of sorrow hangs over the Union, and stretches its shadowy arm over all, like the ominous sign that envelops a ship at sea, far-reaching in its extent and shutting out all sight of light and sunshine. Death comes every day, often enough to make his visits common and unnoticed in many instances, but when he beckons with his dark and invincible finger to one of our great and noble statesmen, and plucks from the galaxy of sages one of its brightest gems, then can we more fully realize his tireless and awful power, and accord to him his soverignty, while we devoutly bow in sorrow over the victim his relentless hand has touched.

Hon. Thomas A. Hendricks, Vice President of the United States, died very suddenly at his home in Indianapolis, last Wednesday evening at 4:45 o'clock, of instantaneous paralysis of the brain and heart. Mr. Hendricks had been complaining for a week previous, but it was not thought that his illness was of a serious nature, as he was up and about his duties the most of his time. He had lain down on his bed, on top of the cover, seemingly to rest a few minutes, and his wife, all unconscious of the approaching end, had gone down stairs to attend to some household duty, and then as if picking its choicest moment, when no one was near to hear the lone man's dying whisper, death beckoned to him to launch his frail bark upon the broad and shoreless ocean of eternity.

And when the good woman came back a beloved and noble husband had passed away, and she had been robbed of what would have been the dearest and most precious hour of all her life—the privilege of being with him in his dying moments. A widow stood and gazed upon the form that was the dearest of any one in all the world to her, and a nation's pulse of sorrow beats in unison with her own, and participates in the great grief that touches the heart-strings of her life.

The sorrow has been general, and in all the large cities of the Union public buildings have been draped in mourning and emblems displayed as fitting acknowledgements of the universal sorrow.

The remains laid in state in the court-house in Indianapolis until yesterday, when with much ceremony and in the presence of an immense concourse of people they were laid away in the Hendricks lot, in the beautiful Crown Hill Cemetery. All the prominent men of the Union were in attendance, and the city was thronged with strangers.

HOW HENDRICKS' DEATH WILL AFFECT POLITICS.

The death of Vice President Hendricks will virtually throw the politics of the country in a very complicated condition. As the law stands now, the President of the Senate succeeds as Vice President, and as the Senate has a Republican majority, of course they will elect their man. This divides the head of the Government in such a way as the people have never seen before—a Democratic President and a Republican Vice President. If President Cleveland were to die now, the country would be back in Republican hands again.

If he were to die before the assembling of Congress next week, the greatest confusion would be the result. The administration of the Government would be without a head, either real or acting, and out of this complicated condition of affairs might emanate the gravest dangers.

The Louisville Democrat has the following to say:

The Democracy feel the loss of Hendricks most acutely at this time, for it throws the organization of the Senate committees into the hands of the Republicans and will result in the election by the Senate of a pro tem.
President officer, who will be in the line of immediate accession to the presidential office if it should become vacant by death or disability on the part of Mr.
Cleveland. Hence, Mr. Hendricks' death is fraught with consequence inevitable and possibly far from pleasant to contemplate. What the country decided as to the organization of the Senate and its committees will now be determined by the Republican majority of that body, for it is not at all likely that they have the wisdom and self-sacrifice to forego immediate gain for moral considerations. The will of the country will be subverted to mere partisan gain.

As to who the Presidency of the Senate will fall upon, is only a matter of conjecture as yet. The Louisville Commercial of a late date has a special from Washington which says:

"There is much speculation about the probable choice of the Republican members of the Senate for President pro tem of the Senate. The impression that Senator Edmunds does not desire the honor of the position is becoming more general. 'Senator Allison,' the Critic says this evening, 'is authority for the statement that the question of the Presidency of the Senate is not likely to be formerly considered until next Thursday or Friday evening, when a caucus of Republican Senators will be held. One of the most prominent and conservative Republican Senators said today that he had no doubt that the Presidency of the Senate would go to the West by caucus nomination. Senator Edmunds can undoubtedly have the Presidency of the Senate if he seeks it, but I am almost certain that he does not. If he is not a candidate, Senator Logan is much more likely to be chosen than any other. The Republican party has expressed its desire that Senator Logan should preside over the sessions of the Senate, and that fact should have a great weight with Republican Senators. My judgment would be that Senator Logan will be chosen President pro tem if he desires to be.'"

MONROE D. CONWAY, a Virginian and an old-time anti-slavery man, says of the result of the election in Virginia: "The commanding fact now is that the Virginians have been saved from political slavery by their former slaves. The rejected stone is now the head of the corner on which real southern freedom must be built."

WHEN an editor sees one of his effusions copied in a neighboring exchange without credit and rushed in as original, he hardly knows whether to sitly hug himself over the conviction that he is supplying the brains for his contemporary, or construct an edifice of his wily borrower out of old exchanges and hang it under the standing gallery for the foreman to cuss when he gets mad.

THE ST. LOUIS Republican says:

"As a class, editors of country newspapers have done more for their state and its welfare and progress than any other set of men in its borders. The country newspaper (in many respects it is unjust to speak of it as a country newspaper), is a great comfort, and a great advantage to every community. The money paid for it is the best invested in the long line of family expenses."

The fiercest battle between factions that has ever occurred in the South, covered Fulton county, Georgia, last week. It was a battle between Prohibition and whiskey. Here is where Atlanta, one of the big cities of the South, is situated, and the fight raged both in the city and county hamlets. But it ended in victory for the Prohibitionists.
All but 15 of the 137 counties in the State have adopted Prohibition, and the next will probably be a State election, which will undoubtedly result in victory for the temperance men.

The Paducah News says: A whipping-post bill, the equalization board and law, the convict question, the development of the state's resources, state education, abbreviation of local legislation, the revenue system, the jury question, support of pauper idiots, a constitutional convention, an appointive judiciary, redistricting of the circuit courts and dispensing with the state's attorneys and increasing the duties of county attorneys will be among the principal questions considered by the approaching legislature. The session, it is evident, will be an interesting one.

STATE NEWS.

Hardin county has a surplus of $40,- 000 in the treasury, and don't know what to do with it.

A growers' and shippers' Association has been organized by the farmers of Ballard county.

A rabid dog of light golden color, with short ears and a head resembling that of a cat, has been killed near Bowling Green.

The Webster County Record, which was suspended a year ago, has resumed publication under the management of its old and excellent editor, E. G. Bishop.

Beverly Kelley, Corner of Christian county, is dead. He was the only colored man ever elected to a county office in the State of Kentucky.

The Flemingsburg Times-Democrat tells of a woman of Fleming county who has given birth to triplets four times in succession, all of them living and healthy.

B. F. Stearns, of Ballard county, a worthy young man with both legs off at the knees, is announced as a candidate for doorkeeper of the lower house of the next Legislature.

The Princeton Banner says that several of the most prominent men of the county are at work in behalf of an Agricultural Fair Company, and that the chances are one will be organized.

The historic home in the town of Fairview, on the Todd county line, in which Jefferson Davis was born, has been bought by a number of Baptists of that vicinity, with the purpose of building a church on the lot next spring.

The penitentiary contains about four hundred and seventy convicts at this time. In round numbers seven hundred are employed outside of the walls, principally in the mining districts.

The penitentiary wall belonging to the Caton woman, Miss Josie Fritz, which first opened his eyes into the prison walls, has progressed far enough to place a lively spell of color on the boards. It usually have the pitch of two hundred pounds pressure to the square inch.

Beaver Dam Notes.

November 28, 1885.

Editor Herald:

The sad tidings of the sudden death of the Vice President of the United States sent a thrill of sadness to the heart of every true American citizen.
Truly his death is a National calamity and the source of a personal grief. It matters not what may be our political affiliations or our personal preferences, all must acknowledge the superior worth of Thomas A. Hendricks and all true men will mourn his sudden demise as a National misfortune. But few men, perhaps no other man in the Union, had such a hold upon the affections and confidences of his countrymen. But few men, if any, stood so nearly without reproach. His life is an instance where true native merit coupled with genuine modesty and divested of inordinate ambition, has been recognized and appreciated. It is to be hoped that his place will be filled by a man of true patriotism, and of good sense and prudence, whatever may be his politics.

The approaching session of Congress will be looked to with more than ordinary interest, and the high and universal esteem in which our own Carter is held, is a matter of pride to every Kentucky Democrat. His almost universal endorsement to the high position of Speaker of the Federal Congress, is a foregone conclusion and spoke well for Kentucky.

The candidates for county offices have begun to circulate among the people, and the probabilities are that we will have a full crop of patriots willing and anxious to sacrifice themselves upon the altar of their country.

Truly, we are a patriotic people.
Since the assembling of the grand jury, our boys have been a little suspicious of the approach of the officers of the law. However, we think our place and vicinity have been very quiet and orderly during the preceding six months, and we hope the same may be said in the future.

Our tobacco men have begun to ride through the country, and some crops have been bought and soon the weed will be hauled in, which will help to enliven trade. Business has been very good for some time. The coal mines have been having a good run and considerable money has been put in circulation through the wages of the miners. We understand that Mr.
Elias Wilson drew over $300 cash on last month's wages. We know him to be a good miner and a nice gentleman.
Doubtless quite a number of others did as well, whose names we did not hear.

We regret to note the death of Alex Simpson, which occurred on the 21st inst., at McHenry. He was buried in Beaver Dam Cemetery the following day.

Mr. L. T. Barnard and family have moved to this place from the Taylor Mines. He will engage in the tobacco business with Mr. W. H. Blackship.
Mr. Noble Bean and wife are visiting the family of their son, Dr. Bean.

Mrs. J. W. Tabor spent several days in town last week visiting relatives.

The school at this place is progressing well.

Born, to the wife of Tommie Stevens, on the 26th inst., a son, Tom Robertson.

RURAL.

Rockport, November 30, 1885.

It is said that "if there is one time more than another when a woman should be alone, it is—when a line of clothes comes down in the mud." However, this has nothing to do with my letter.

Mr. Robert Cummings, son of Jacob Cummings formerly of this county, but now of Waxahachie, Texas, arrived here on a visit the 25th inst. He is greatly pleased with Texas. He and his father, with their own labor have made $1,200 worth of cotton this year, besides wheat, corn, and oats in abundant.

Mrs. W. E. Davis is very sick, and has been for several days. It is thought her recovery is doubtful.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hudson of Dyersburg, Tenn., are visiting relatives here.

Prof. Stone is giving a series of lessons in vocal music here.

"Let the singing singers, With vocal voices most victorious, In sweet vocalization out-vocalize, Even sound itself."

The rabid dog of which Mr. Renter inquires, was doubtless that of Mr. Joe L. R. Maddox. It was a large yellow dog of the apparent shepherd breed, and was bitten by the mad dog killed near McHenry. It left home about the 10th ult.

The Henderson papers say that out of a lot of 45,000 staves shipped from this point, only 7 were cull, this being by far the smallest per cent. of culls ever known. These staves were made by Mr. E. C. Riley, who is still here making hoops for tobacco hogsheds.

STAGES.

Heda, November 27, 85.

Yesterday being Thanksgiving and we like a great many Americans a little prone to dyspeptic moods, these national holidays ordinarily depresses us somewhat.

We are to have three tobacco hoshs in operation here this season. Godshaw, Fosterland Barnett as purchasers.
We are in hopes the scales may turn in their favor this season, as all were so fortunate, we learn, as to have lost some money on last years purchase.

The Marks place recently vacated by the removal of Mr. Geo. Spurrier, to Whitesville, is being occupied by Mr.
Richard Barnett and family, in the near future.

The very sudden death of Mr. Joshua Chapman was a shock to the entire community. A more vigorous and hale looking gentleman was scarcely known in this section, and the ac-councement of his untimely demise which occurred at 5 o'clock last Friday morning, was such a great surprise that the truth of it was hard to realize.
Health of the community comparatively good at this time.

Mr. Wm. Spurrier of Whitesville was circulating here among his old friends last Saturday and Sunday.
Mrs. Matilda Bennett is recovering from an attack of pneumonia.

The meeting at the Baptist church at this place still continues. Up to last night there had been ninety-three additions to the church and many others inquiring the way of life.

Rev. J. Sam Taylor, of Bell's Run, is here taking part in the meeting.

Misses Lizzie and Emma Matthews, of Rock Vale, Breckenridge Co., were visiting friends in town and vicinity last week.

Farmers are gathering corn, which will yield a more bountiful crop than was expected.

We are sorry to announce that Mrs.
Sam Gaines is dangerously ill, but is thought to be better this morning.

Mr. B. F. Wallace is talking of building a warehouse and laying tobacco at this place. He is a good citizen and is trying to enlarge the town. He has been building all day.

PROSPECTUS.

During the past few months the demand for the Post has greatly increased.
In the country, its popularity being particularly marked in the interior of Kentucky, Tennessee and Indiana, some difficulties have been presented, however, it is not yet possible to see difficulties soon after publication was desired, owing to the existing regulations that control the movement of the paper, while in other respects it is enjoying advantages over the morning papers in this respect, and we have been enabled to furnish a portion of our subscribers with the paper for twelve months to fifteen months in advance of our contemporaries. In order to meet the difficulty suggested, we have determined to issue the Semi-Weekly edition, which will contain carefully selected news matter, full and accurate reports of the markets and other features, which cannot be found in the morning papers, and which will be published at a price almost indispensable to the farmers, merchants and to the general reader of the interior. We are enabled, too, to furnish this interesting edition to subscribers in any part of the country for only

We acknowledge receipt of an invitation to attend the silver wedding of Judge William L. Dulaney and wife, which took place at their home in Bowling Green, November the 30, 1885. We regret that we could not be present, but our holiest wishes were with them.

The average age of the members of the grand jury is 56 5-16 years, the average of an average before electing. Thanksgiving dinner at the Commercial Hotel was about 150 pounds, after dinner 165 5-16 pounds. Our grand jurymen know how to show their appreciation of a good dinner.

All persons knowing themselves indebted to us, either by account or otherwise, are hereby duly notified to call and pay the same at once. We need money and must have what is due us. Thankful for past favors and soliciting a continuance of same, we remain, Respectfully, W. H. WILLIAMS & SON.

The charge of Judge Little to the grand jury, now in session, has been very highly complimented, and we have been requested by several prominent citizens and by the grand jury as a body to publish the same. Judge Little has consented to furnish us a copy of it and we will publish it next issue.

Thanksgiving day was bright and pleasant, almost like a spring day. It was not very rigidly observed by our merchants, only it is supposed they will want home to big turkey dinners. Court adjourned after motion hour in the morning and the tank closed, and these were about the only institutions that curtailed their every-day duties.

If you want to make a distant friend or relative a nice Christmas present, come in and send a copy of the HERALD to them for a year. In passing through Rosine tunnel, one of the cars was too high and struck the roof of the tunnel and capsized and liberated a wild cat and catamount. The keeper, with his club, captured them in the tunnel and placed them in cages again.

We will issue five hundred extra copies of the HERALD next week, and we hope to see our advertisers take advantage of it. They will be distributed promiscuously over the country, and will be a grand opportunity for advertising in any shape or form. The HERALD will be filled with all the news, both political and local, and will be made as readable as time, energy, and hard work can make it.

Mr. John M. Leach is announced as a candidate for Assessor in this issue. He is too well known to need any introduction from us. He is a sober, industrious, honest, upright citizen, a true Democrat, a man of large experience and well qualified to fill the position. He filled the position of deputy sheriff for a long while and made an excellent officer, has also filled the position of justice of the peace to the satisfaction of his constituents. His candidacy is subject to the Democratic primary election or convention.

Messrs J. P. Jenkins, J. Fraise Richard, H. P. Loveland, A. H. McLaren, W. J. Morris, J. E. and W. A. Willis, have been in the town and county for the past week, delivering a large lot of Histories of Kentucky, a valuable and beautiful book that has recently been issued from the publishing house. It is an elegant volume, beautiful and interesting in its entire get-up.

The Hartford House has been crowded for the past week, and all because they find plenty to eat and good accommodations. This house is fast becoming popular as a first-class hotel in every way, and people are bound to go where they will find things pleasant and comfortable. Mr. Miller, the proprietor, is polite and obliging and uses every effort to make things pleasant for his guests.

A farmer living in Ohio county has an elegantly laid-off farm. His house is laid off exactly north and south, and he scarcely needs a clock to tell him when it is noon, for the sun mark inside the door is always sure. He also has his farm laid off the same, the rows running parallel with his house, and he needs no time-piece to tell him when it is noon, no matter where he is working on his farm.

Almost everybody have money laid up to spend Christmas time, merely because it is a time of good feeling and rejoicing, and a kind of liberal feeling comes over a person, that is proverbial in its extent. While this good and generous feeling is over you, just come in and subscribe for the HERALD, and help us rejoice with you. The amount is so small you will hardly miss it, and you will reap the benefit the whole year to come.

News comes to us of a painful accident that befell a lady living in the county, which might have resulted in something more horrible, but for timely interference. Last Friday Mrs. Virgie Miller, daughter of Wm. Ford, of Ellis precinct, had her dress to catch on fire while standing near a grate, and in her frantic efforts to smother out the flames, burned her hands terribly. She ran to some woman near in the house, and implored her to throw the tub of water she was using over her, but the lady with more forethought, quickly threw one of the soaking articles she was washing around the burning woman, completely dousing the fire, and in this act averted a horrible calamity and perhaps saved her life.

Yesterday evening about three o'clock Neut. Frazier shot Flem. Kuykendall three times, from the effect of which he died in a few minutes. There has been bad blood between them for some time, and they had had some trouble previously. Frazier bought a pistol yesterday and went and shot Kuykendall three times with the effects as before stated.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. Jake Rowe returned last Friday from Dallas, Texas.

Mr. John T. Jackson, of Rockport, was in town Monday.

Dr. George E. Stowers and daughter left for Owensboro yesterday.

Messrs W. S. Stierette, of Havesville, and Geo. F. Long, of Calhoun, are now on the HERALD force.

Judge Massey went to Owensboro last Saturday and returned Monday, bringing his daughter, Miss Nora H., home with him.

Hon. E. Dudley Walker returned Sunday from Frankfort, where he had been to argue some cases in the Court of Appeals.

Hon. W. T. Ellis, one of the prominent lawyers of Owensboro, and prospective candidate for Congress, was in town last Saturday.

Misses Katie and Lula King, the twin daughters of Mr. W. T. King, gave a birthday party last Sunday, in honor of their sixteenth birthday.

Mr. John Allison, of Greenville, a candidate for Assistant Clerk of the Senate, has been in the city for a week past circulating among friends.

Dr. A. B. Barker, who has been at the Hartford House for a week, assisting the blind to see and the deaf to hear, will leave Friday for Greenville.

Col. W. H. Porter, of the Cromwell regiment, has been confined to his room all the time and to his bed most of the time since the first of last August.

Mrs. Mollie Reed, son and daughter, of Kansas Station, Ill., are visiting the family of J. H. C. Cannon, near Rosine. Mrs. Reed is a native of Hartford.

Our old and appreciated friend, Mr. John C. Barton, of the firm of Barton & Lee, wholesale dealers in matches and cigars, Louisville, spent Thanksgiving in town.

Robert Cummins, son of Jacob Cummins, of Cool Spring district, returned from Texas last week after an absence of four years. He will remain a month or so before returning.

Henry McHenry and Miss Mary Taylor ate Thanksgiving dinner at the Louisville Hotel, at the solicitation of Mr. Lem McHenry, the urban clerk of that popular and elegant house.

Our former citizen, A. Lee Rowe, now of Mineral Wells, Texas, has been quite sick for several weeks with fever, but from a letter received last Saturday, we guess he is up and about by this time.

Godfrey McHenry left last Sunday for Echols, where he will take charge of his father's store and be general book-keeper for the mines at that place. We regret to lose Godfrey from our midst, and hope he will make his return visits often.

Col. W. H. Perrin, general manager of the late history of Kentucky, and who also superintended the editing of the book, has been at the Hartford House several days past, directing the distribution of the histories over the county.

Hon. Joshua G. Ford, of Baraboo, Wisconsin, is in the Green River country, and we are advised that he will visit Hartford if possible. He is the pioneer newspaper man of Ohio county and should meet with a hearty reception from our citizens.

Mr. B. M. Southard, of this county, left recently for Winfield, Kansas, where he expects to make his future home. Mr. Southard was one of our most respectable and reliable citizens, always whole-souled and genial, and we heartily commend him to the confidence and honor of the people of Winfield, knowing him to be trustworthy and a gentleman in every respect.

A Horrible Accident.

On the 21st ult., at Rochester, Ky., a six-year-old son of Mr. E. Tanner met with a terrible accident that cost him his life. He was standing near a fire in the house, when his clothing became ignited, and as is generally the case, in his excitement and fright, started to run, only fanning the flames to fiercer heat. He started out and around the house, when his little brother, thirteen years old, saw him and gave chase, and in a few minutes caught him. With rare presence of mind and evincing a thoughtfulness worthy of a much older person, he jerked his own coat off and throwing it over his brother or down, smothered the fire out. The mother witnessed the whole horrible sight, but could only stand and scream screaming transfixed in her wild fright. It all transpired in a few minutes, but the fierce, consuming blaze did its terrible work, and the little fellow died the next day in horrible agony. Such a calamity is terrible even to hear of, but when the victim is one of the youngest and dearest children of a family, the deep sorrow of the parents can better be imagined than felt.

Something Wrong with the Cartridges.

A day or two ago a Hartford hunter, in a fit of economy, started for the woods with a belt of cartridges of his own preparing, reasoning that by buying his powder and shot and filling his own shells he saved at least fifty cents on the dozen. After he had fired a score or more times without hitting anything he concluded that something might possibly be wrong with his cartridges. Retiring to a quiet nook in the woods, out of sight of his companions, he examined his shells and found to his intense chagrin that he had forgotten to put any shot in them. He pleaded sickness and came home without delay, and of course without partridges.

Teachers' Convention.

Pursuant to a published call, some of the teachers of the public schools of Ohio county met at the office of the County Judge last Saturday evening.

On motion, P. E. Hoyer was chosen chairman and John O'Flaherty, secretary.

A committee consisting of John O'Flaherty and D. J. Coleman was appointed to draft a memorial to the legislature, expressive of the sentiments of the teachers of this county.

The committee, after deliberation, reported the following:

To the Honorable, the General Assembly of Kentucky:

We, the undersigned teachers of the common schools of Ohio county, in view of the manifest injustice, with which, as a class, we have been treated for a number of years past, believe that the present is the most opportune time to seek a redress of grievances; to that end, therefore, we respectfully invite your consideration of the following:

First—The existing method of disbursing the school funds is subversive of the public good, and in utter disregard of the rights and interests of the teacher.

Second—The forty per cent. and the sixty per cent. basis of payment has resulted in great financial loss to us, because of the inability, or the disinclination of the State to meet its obligations promptly.

Third—The present method of determining the proportion of the general revenue due the school fund is radically wrong, and so long as it exists, the per capita can only be determined by guess. This wrong, enlightened statesmanship should hasten to remedy.

Fourth—Our necessities as citizens frequently compel us to borrow on our school claims at a loss of from 25 per centum to 50 per centum per annum. We regard this as unjust discrimination against the teacher, and also, as disastrous in its effects on the school system, in this, that the grade of the school and the teacher is proportionately lowered, inasmuch as it forces professional, experienced and efficient teachers to abandon the school room for other and more lucrative positions, thereby consigning this great public interest to the sole care of the ignorant, the impracticable and the inefficient.

Fifth—The law regulating the issuing of certificates is equally discriminatory and unjust. The diploma of the physicians or the license of the lawyers entitles either to practice his profession, unquestioned, in any part of the Commonwealth. The teacher, proposing to teach in any county, other than the one from which his certificate is issued, must undergo a re-examination.

In view of these several evils, we respectfully ask your honorable body to enact:

1. A law authorizing the Auditor, or other proper person, to borrow on the credit of the State, a sum of money sufficient to make one annual payment to the teachers. This will place the school year in advance of the revenue of the State, and enable the Superintendent of Public Instruction to determine with accuracy the per capita due each child of pupil age, and will enable the teacher to enter into a business-like contract with the trustee.

2. That thereafter the teacher shall receive the public money due his district in monthly installments.

3. That a teacher holding a first-class certificate shall be entitled to teach in any county of the Commonwealth without re-examination.
